FINE NEW CRAFTS.

Two Modern Fishermen Recently Launched at Nova Scotia.

Smith & Rhuland, of Lunenburg, N. S., will launch a new fishing vessel for Capt. Angus Walters. Another for Capt. Edwin Backman will be ready in about ten days. Both vessels are splendid types of the Lunenburg built schooner.

At Liverpool, N. S., a few days ago, A. W. Hendry & Son launched a new schooner named the Medway. She is 115 feet long, 25 1-2 feet beam and 11 feet hold. She was modelled on the very latest hull and deck plan of a crack bank fishing vessel of the larger class. At the same time she is a combination of both fishing schooner and general freighter, and will carry a reasonably large cargo. She is copper fastened and has galvanized iron work throughout. Blocks, mast heads and all attachments are of the latest type. The Medway is the eighth vessel of a fleet now owned by Hendry & Son, built at Liverpool by them, one each year since 1900. She will load for the West Indies at once and will return with a cargo of salt.

INSIDE THREE MILE LIMIT.

Canada Prohibits Beam and Other Trawlers from Fishing.

Below is a copy of the order-in-council relating to beam trawlers, as contained in the Canada Gazette of Sept. 12, 1908:

His Excellency the Governor General in council, in virtue of the provisions of section 54 of The Fisheries Act, chapter 45 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1906, is pleased to make and doth hereby make the following Fishery Regulation:

"The use or operation of vessels known as steam trawlers, operating beam otter or other trawls for the purpose of catching fish, is prohibited within the three mile limit and in the bays and harbors of Canada.

Mackerel News.

The netting sch. Freedom landed 95 fresh mackerel at this port yesterday.

Sch. Carrie E., another of the netters, landed 300 fresh mackerel at Boston yesterday afternoon.

At Boston yesterday, from Nova Scotia were 165 barrels of fresh mackerel.

SPLENDID STOCKS.

Sch. S. P. Willard Is High Line of Flitching Fleet.

Sch. Raymah, Haddocking, Stocked Over $6000 in a Month.

The flitched halibut season closed with the arrival on Monday of sch. Arbutus, the last vessel of the fleet to come.

The high line of the fleet this season is sch. S. P. Willard, Capt. Augustus Peterson, which weighed off 96,000 pounds of flitched halibut and 143,000 pounds of salt cod. On this fine fare, the dandy stock of $11,857.12 was made, while the crew did well, sharing $298.83 each. The cook of the vessel got $556 for his part of the five months trip.

Some of the other flitchers who did well, are as follows:

Sch. Admiral Dawey, Capt. James Hayes, stocked $9013, the crew sharing $227.26.

Sch. Henry M. Stanley, Capt. Henry Arsenault, stocked $8100, the crew sharing $202.

Sch. Massachusetts, Capt. John J. Carroll, stocked $8324.23, the crew sharing $191.03.

Sch. Oregon, Capt. Albert Flygore, stocked $8085, the crew sharing $198.45.

Sch. Fannie A. Smith, which was home early, made a fine season's work, as did sch. Margaret, and sch. Essex, which came in last week.

Another stock, well worthy of note, which has been made recently is that rolled up in one month, by the sch. Raymah, Capt. Felix Hogan, fishing in South Channel, and tending the T wharf market. From August 25 to September 25 the Raymah made five trips and on them made the splendid stock of $6372.32. This is remarkable work for a month's fall fishing and even in the winter, when prices are highest, it has seldom been equalled or excelled. Capt. Hogan, who is one of the drivers of the fleet, has certainly got the biggest kind of a start for a most successful season's work.

Monster Shark Captured Off Swampscott.

One of the largest man-eating sharks ever brought into Swampscott, was caught by Nat D. Pierce, a fisherman, off Dred ledge last Friday. When he went to pull his nets he found the fish entangled in it, and he finally succeeded after a hard battle in landing it off the beach. The shark measured 9 feet and weighs more than 900 pounds. The shark was a fine specimen, mouse colored with a white belly. It is also provided with a set of teeth which would require little time to do much damage. It was taken to Lynn for exhibition. Capt. Pierce is one of the oldest fishermen in that town, being nearly 80, and he landed the fish unassisted. After he had the shark well in hand he allowed it to drown before undertaking to beach it.

LARGE FLEET AT BOSTON.

Small Fares Cause Big Prices for Cod and Haddock.

There is a goodly fleet of vessels at T wharf today, some 32 sail being there with not too large fares. Fish are in great demand, consequently the prices are high and all will profit accordingly.

OFF THACHER'S ISLAND.

Sch. Gracie Took 500 Mackerel In One Night's Set of Nets.

The little netting sch. Gracie, Capt. Peter Grant, arrived here this noon with 500 fresh mackerel, the result of one night's set of her nets off Thacher's island. The fish sold to William E. Dennett.

It is reported that the little sch. Hobo is at Rockport with 1000 fresh mackerel, the result of two nights work.

The news of these two catches, also that mackerel had been taken by the net fishermen off Pigeon Cove, started up lots of the shore boats this afternoon, and many of them quickly changed from pollocking and shore work, put on their nets and started after the high-priced mackerel.

Monster Sea Turtle.

Capt. Shounan of Southport, Me., while fishing off great ledge in the vicinity of Monhegan Island, recently captured what is said to be the largest sea turtle ever seen on the Maine coast. Its weight is 1500 pounds, 9 feet long and 5 wide. It was towed into Boothbay Harbor and will be on exhibition at the state and county fairs.
